Topic -Vocabulary Junction

Vocabulary Junction

Look at these lines from the poem.

Grandpa says that sometimes,
When stars are twinkling and
A new moon shines, there come times
When folks see fairy-land!

This sentence is about something that the grandfather often says. Thus, the verb says has been used. The word tell is used when we want to specify to whom something is said.

Examples:

Govind said that his mother was unwell.
Govind told Deb that his mother was unwell.

In the first sentence, we do not know who Govind told this to. It is just something he said. So, the word said has been used. In the second sentence, we find out that Govind told Deb about it. So, the word "told" has been used.

The words say and tell have the same meaning, but they are used in different situations.

Let us look at another example.

He said that he is going to be late.
My mother told me a very interesting story.

 Tell the children that said can be used with two objects if to is added.
Example: He said to me that his mother is unwell.

Similarly, there are other words which are similar in meaning but are used in different situations.

The words speak and tell have similar meanings but speak is used in more formal situations. Tell is used for day-to-day conversations.
